

Formation “How to make the right impression and deliver clear messages along public speaking”

---

Intervenant : Annick Haug, Human Ressources Partner, Société Merck Molsheim.

Public concerné : Doctorants anglophones

Calendrier : 23 October 2017

Lieu : Salle des séminaires, Collège Doctoral Européen

Durée validée : 4h30

---

Scope :

Communication belongs to the major competencies you will need to demonstrate to be successful in your job whether it is in a public or private compagny.

We communicate constantly but delivering a clear message means preparing an audience to receive information, give the information, make sure that the message is understood and that the audience will remember it.

This training dedicated to PhD students in Biology will help you getting a better understanding of impact of communication through practical exercices. You will learn how to prepare your communication, how to structure and manage it, how to choose the appropriate tools and behavior in order to deliver clear messages and make right impression in front of a group.

This training will be delievered in English and is part of the special ED -Merck partnership.